I'm Nesha Pai

Her clients call her The Momentum Maker™

Nesha Pai is the founder and CEO of one of the country's first fully remote accounting firms, launched more than 20 years ago after her time as an Arthur Andersen employee (pre-Enron). What she witnessed there—the widening gap between stated values and everyday behavior—inspired her to build a company in the opposite spirit: one defined by consistency, trust, care, speed, and exceptional standards.

Today, Nesha's firm provides accounting and financial oversight for more than 80 businesses generating over $200 million in combined annual revenue. Drawing from two decades of leading through growth and complexity, she shows leaders how to eliminate inconsistency, raise their standards, and ignite sustainable momentum in the way they lead, serve, and execute.

An internationally recognized speaker, Nesha has addressed audiences across the US and UK, including Karren Brady's Women in Business & Tech Expo in London and the AICPA Global Women's Leadership Conference in Nashville.

She doesn't just inspire rooms.
She shifts them.

OBSTACLES ARE OPPORTUNITIES

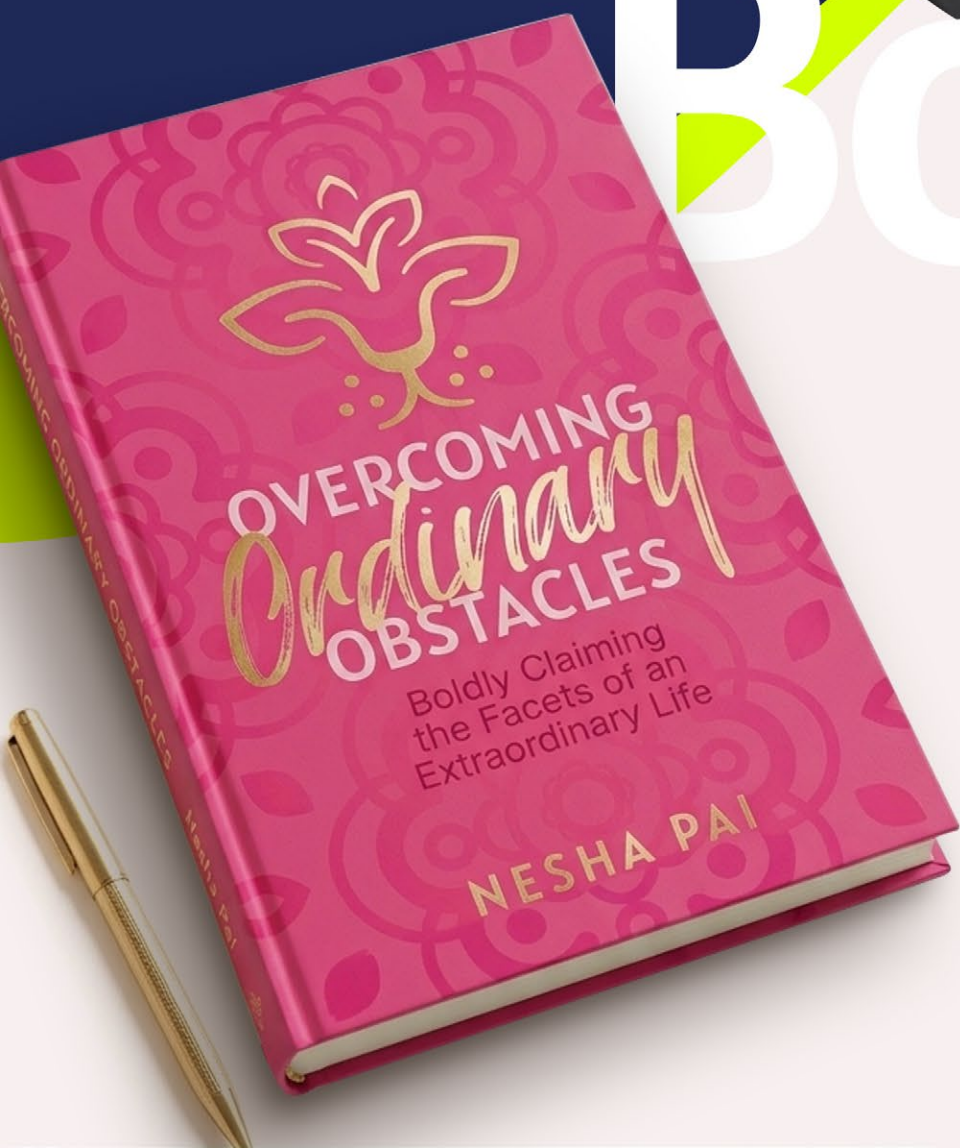

In "Overcoming Ordinary Obstacles," Nesha Pai shows us how faith, forgiveness, and resilience can turn obstacles into opportunities.

From her viewpoint of a first generation Indian woman born and raised in the south, she shares overcoming racism and sexism to creating her own identity and building a business and is a prime example of creating the life you want.

Nesha's book won the 2020 Multicultural Non-Fiction award at the American Book Fest. It won the NextGen Indie Finalist award in the Memoirs: Career category in 2025.

Book

"Nesha captures so eloquently a very vulnerable viewpoint of her journey as a first-generation American woman growing up in the South. She shows us that it is possible to experience ordinary obstacles and turn them into something extraordinary."

– Leonard Wheeler, entrepreneur, author, corporate consultant, and former NFL player

"Many people run from or hide from life's challenges, but Nesha runs into them and faces them head on. Nesha is not afraid of being authentic and real and looks to relate to readers in their own journeys of life."

– Sara McMann,
mixed martial artist with the UFC and an Olympic medalist
